A USD 1.5 Trillion Affair: The Billionaires and Global Powerhouses at Trump’s 2025 Inauguration

(L–R): Mark Zuckerberg, CEO, Meta; Lauren Jeff Sánchez; Jeff Bezos; Founder, Amazon; Sundar Pichai, Google and Alphabet CEO; Elon Musk, CEO of Tesla and SpaceX; and several other international corporate leaders.

The 2025 inauguration of President Donald Trump was not just a political event but a gathering of some of the wealthiest and most influential individuals in the world. With a combined net worth exceeding USD 1.5 trillion, billionaires and corporate leaders from various industries assembled in Washington, D.C., symbolizing the deep ties between business and politics.

The Titans of Technology and Innovation

Elon Musk – The Visionary Powerhouse

With an estimated net worth of USD 433 billion, Elon Musk, CEO of Tesla and SpaceX, was a central figure at the inauguration. Musk had donated USD 300 million to Trump’s campaign and was tapped to lead the newly proposed Department of Government Efficiency. His appearance underscored his desire to extend his transformative thinking beyond business into public administration.

Jeff Bezos – The Former Rival

Amazon founder Jeff Bezos, with a net worth of USD 239 billion, attended alongside his fiancée, Lauren Sánchez. Once a vocal critic of Trump, Bezos now found common ground through shared ambitions in space exploration and logistics, signaling a recalibration of their relationship.

Mark Zuckerberg – The Social Media Strategist

Mark Zuckerberg, CEO of Meta, brought his USD 211 billion fortune to the table. Co-hosting a pre-inauguration ball, Zuckerberg emphasized the role of digital platforms in political discourse, demonstrating his alignment with the administration’s policies.

Sundar Pichai – The Diplomat

Google and Alphabet CEO Sundar Pichai, with a net worth of USD 1.3 billion, was seen conversing with Musk and Zuckerberg. His attendance reflected Google’s interest in maintaining influence amid evolving regulations on big tech.

Tim Cook – The Silent Supporter

Apple CEO Tim Cook made headlines with his USD 1 million donation to Trump’s inaugural committee. With Apple deeply embedded in every aspect of modern life, Cook’s understated presence was a nod to the company’s ongoing significance in national innovation.

Sam Altman – The AI Pioneer

Sam Altman, CEO of OpenAI, was among the rising stars at the event. Representing the frontier of artificial intelligence, Altman’s participation highlighted AI’s growing impact on governance and policy-making.

With a combined net worth exceeding USD 1.5 trillion, billionaires and corporate leaders from various industries assembled in Washington, D.C., symbolizing the deep ties between business and politics.

Global Leaders in Business

Bernard Arnault – The Luxury Titan

Bernard Arnault, CEO of LVMH, arrived with his USD 179 billion fortune. As a leader in the luxury market, his presence illustrated how the world’s wealthiest industries align with political leadership to shape global consumer markets.

Mukesh Ambani – The International Powerhouse

Indian industrialist Mukesh Ambani, with a net worth of USD 95 billion, stood out as the only non-Western billionaire in attendance. As chairman of Reliance Industries, his influence in energy and telecommunications highlighted the global economic ties represented at the inauguration.

The Political Allies

Phil Ruffin – The Casino Magnate

Phil Ruffin, a longtime friend of Trump and a casino mogul, added a personal touch to the event. With a net worth of USD 3 billion, Ruffin’s enduring friendship with Trump exemplified the president’s connections to business magnates.

Miriam Adelson – The Republican Pillar

Miriam Adelson, widow of Sheldon Adelson, represented one of the most significant Republican donors. With a personal fortune of USD 34 billion, her attendance demonstrated the enduring role of high-net-worth individuals in shaping Republican policy and campaigns.

Shou Zi Chew – The Global Connector

TikTok CEO Shou Zi Chew, with a net worth of USD 2 billion, surprised many with his presence. His attendance was seen as a diplomatic gesture, aiming to bridge gaps between the platform and the administration amid scrutiny over data security.

A Billionaire Affair

This historic inauguration was more than just a celebration of Trump’s presidency; it was a vivid display of how wealth and influence can shape political and economic strategies. The billionaires in attendance brought diverse expertise—from technology and luxury to energy and entertainment—demonstrating the profound ways in which their industries intersect with governance. Together, they represented not just immense wealth but the future of innovation and global cooperation.

President Donald Trump’s 2025 inauguration fundraising efforts have set unprecedented records, amassing over USD 250 million from various corporate and individual donors.

> The billionaires in attendance brought diverse expertise—from technology and luxury to energy and entertainment—demonstrating the profound ways in which their industries intersect with governance. Together, they represented not just immense wealth but the future of innovation and global cooperation.

These substantial contributions highlight the eagerness of various industries to support the incoming administration, reflecting a strategic alignment with President Trump’s policies and a desire to maintain favorable relations with the government.

Major Contributions

Tech Industry Leaders
Amazon	USD 1 million
Meta (formerly Facebook)	USD 1 million
Google	USD 1 million
Microsoft	USD 1 million
Apple	USD 1 million
OpenAI CEO Sam Altman	USD 1 million
Uber	USD 1 million

Automotive Industry
Ford Motor Company	USD 1 million
General Motors	USD 1 million
Toyota	USD 1 million

Financial and Pharmaceutical Sectors
Goldman Sachs	USD 1 million
Pfizer	USD 1 million
Intuit	USD 1 million

Cryptocurrency Industry
Robinhood	USD 1 million
Ripple	USD 1 million
Coinbase	USD 1 million