The Sri Lanka Institute of Architects (SLIA) is the governing body of Architectural professionals and the study of architecture in Sri Lanka. Architect 2013, the annual sessions of SLIA, is scheduled from February 20-24, 2013, under the theme 'Think Smart: Innovative Enterprise Architecture'. This National Conference will be addressed by several internationally reputed professionals.

The SLIA appointed Alumex, one of Sri Lanka's leading manufacturers of Aluminium profiles, as the strategic sponsor for the third consecutive year in 2013. A Memorandum of Understanding was signed between SLIA and Alumex for this purpose.

The agreement was signed by Archt Ranjan Nadesapillai, President of SLIA and Rohan Peris, Managing Director of Alumex in the presence of other members and representatives from SLIA and Alumex.

"We are pleased to continue our partnership with Alumex for the third consecutive year. SLIA always ties up with reputed organisations in the construction industry for sponsorships - therefore, Alumex, as the strategic sponsor, is given an important opportunity to be a part of this venture. We hope to see another successful year ahead between Alumex and SLIA," said Archt Ranjan Nadesapillai, President of SLIA.

As SLIA's strategic sponsor for 2013, Alumex will be the main sponsor for Architect 2013 which will include the National Conference, Member's Work and Trade Exhibition, Annual General Meeting and Fellowship Night.

“Alumex is extremely honoured to be associated with this event; it is one of the premier events in the construction industry calendar. Being the strategic sponsor for Architect 2013 opens new pathways to the construction industry. We are able to display and promote our product range to architects and architectural students,” stated Rohan Peris, Managing Director - Alumex.
