

ComBank Donates Computers And Furniture To BCI's New Agri School

Opening of the Agri School of BCI by Don Leonardo Di Mauro, President of Committee of Charitable Intervention, while His Eminence Malcolm Cardinal Ranjith, Archbishop of Colombo (left) and His Eminence Cardinal Gualtiero Bassetti, President, Italian Bishops Conference (right) look on.

S Renganathan, Managing Director, Commercial Bank (second from right) and Nandika Budhupola, Chief Financial Officer (extreme left) at the Computer Room equipped and furnished by the Bank.

Commercial Bank donated computers and furniture to the newly opened Agri School of the Benedict XVI Catholic Institute (BCI) for Vocational Training in Waradala, Mellawagedara. The school was set up with the objective of encouraging more youth to take up agriculture as a respected and lucrative career path, and to empower those already in the field.

Commercial Bank donated computers and furniture to the newly opened Agri School of the Benedict XVI Catholic Institute (BCI) for Vocational Training in Waradala, Mellawagedara. The school was set up with the objective of encouraging more youth to take up agriculture as a respected and lucrative career path, and to empower those already in the field. The school is located at a farm premises owned by the Church and was declared open by His Eminence Cardinal Gualtiero Bassetti, President, Italian Bishops Conference and Don Leonardo Di Mauro, the President of Committee of Charitable Intervention and His Eminence Malcolm Cardinal Ranjith, Archbishop of Colombo. Its operations will be managed by the Benedict XVI Catholic Institute of Higher Education. The BCI operates three departments, Department of English, Department of ICT and Department of Professional Studies which offer a variety of study programs.