The A-Class Sedan that premiered at the 'Taste of Europe' Food Festival was well received by the automobile enthusiasts. They were seen eagerly examining the luxurious interiors and appreciating the novel features. The new A-Class Sedan is produced with the latest luxury features Mercedes-Benz has to offer, including the Burmester sound system and a wireless phone charging docket. The vehicle features a 1.4-liter turbo-charged engine, together with 163 horsepower and seven Speed Automatic Transmission. The Sedan also guarantees a high level of safety, incorporating seven airbags, state-of-the-art driving assistance and safety systems with Mercedes engineering and strenuous quality testing. Built with key Mercedes features, the A-Class Sedan incorporates keyless go hands-free access, panoramic sliding roof, memory seats, semi-automatic driving assistance and LED headlamps with integrated LED daytime running lamps. The Sedan is at the top of its class in rear headroom and also has the lowest aerodynamic drag of all production vehicles worldwide. Speaking on the unveiling of the A-Class sedan, Rajeev Pandithage, General Manager (Mercedes-Benz), DIMO said, "The premier of the A-Class heralds a new generation of sedans for the brand, incorporating MBUX Infotainment system, with a host of other modern high-tech features in clear pitch to millennial luxury buyers. We would like to sincerely thank all our customers who have expressed an interest and dropped by to get an exclusive first look at the new A-Class Sedan. We have been overwhelmed with interest and are delighted that the introduction of the new A-Class Sedan has been such a success."
