University Of West London Collaborates With ANC Education To Launch The ANC School Of Postgraduate Education

ANC Education launched its first ever School of Postgraduate Education to mark its tenth anniversary. The ANC School of Postgraduate Education was launched in collaboration with the University of West London, UK (UWL).

“This is a significant milestone in our journey of ten years. ANC school of Postgraduate Education, with the motto of “Advancing Knowledge, Transforming lives, Changing Organisations” is now focusing on an entirely a new target group. We see great potential for postgraduate programmes locally and as usual ANC ensures to provide all coursework on par with global standards,” said Dr Punarjeeva Karunanayake, CEO/ Executive Director of ANC Education.

Jagath Alwis, Chairman of ANC Education stated, “ANC School of Postgraduate Education was launched with the objective of providing excellent British Postgraduate education to Sri Lankan students in collaboration with the University of West London. It is with great pride that ANC will present a series of industry relevant postgraduate awards which will enhance the earning capacity of students”.

“As a part of our expanding partnerships with international education institutions, we are happy to partner with ANC Education to offer a number of postgraduate awards. We are confident that our up-to-date postgraduate awards will benefit students in Sri Lanka for both academic and career advancement" sated Prof Peter John the Vice Chancellor of University of West London.

The latest venture of ANC Education will be focused on advancing knowledge by introducing study methods that deviate from theory based education and capture more practical elements. The general curriculum and the theoretical aspects of the programme will precisely cover what is offered by the University of West London with 30 percent of the coursework being taught by professors from London.

ANC will offer added benefits for students by giving them a rare opportunity to listen to the experiences and the success stories of Sri Lanka's business leaders, CEOs, leading lawyers etc by way of workshops, seminars and series of networking sessions. Another objective of the postgraduate school is transforming lives of the students by molding them to increase their earning potential by inculcating skills and knowledge sought after by the employers.

ANC will offer four programmes under the law postgraduate programme including LLM International Business and Commercial Law, LLM International Banking and Finance Law, LLM International Studies in Intellectual Property Law and LLM International Investment and Arbitration Law. The postgraduate business programmes include the MBA, MA Contemporary Marketing, MSc International Business Management and MSc Project Management.

Students who enroll in the LLM programmes are given the unique opportunity to complete one semester in London at a minimal rate of approximately 1000 pounds. The completion of postgraduate programmes at ANC can be done at phenomenally low rates and flexible time schedule. The ANC school of Postgraduate Education will open up valuable opportunities to students to qualify with an international postgraduate award.
