Vision Care reinforced its long-standing partnership with Colombo Fashion Week (CFW) as the Official Eyewear Partner for the Luxury Edit: Couture + Trousseau 2025.

This celebrated edition brought together Sri Lanka's finest designers, showcasing artistry, craftsmanship, and individuality at the heart of luxury fashion.

At this year's showcase, Vision Care featured two globally renowned eyewear brands—Swarovski and Versace—each recognized for distinctive design identities. Their aesthetics complemented the couture collections on the runway, enhancing creative narratives with refined elegance and bold contemporary flair.

Sri Lankan designers including Asanka De Mel (LOVI), Indi Yapa Abeywardena, Kami I Hewavitharana, Fouzul Hameed (Hameedia), and Aslam Hussein incorporated Vision Care eyewear into their presentations, elevating eyewear from an accessory to a statement element that reinforced its growing influence in high fashion and personal style.

Adding international diversity, Indian designers Taniya Khanuja, Nikhita Tandon, and Reynu Tandon presented collections, enriching the Luxury Edit with global perspectives. The premium Swarovski and Versace eyewear collections showcased on the runway are available at select Vision Care branches, offering customers access to the same global styles featured at the event.

Swarovski's signature crystal embellishments brought glamour and sophistication, while Versace's bold, confident designs delivered striking fashion-forward statements.

As official eyewear partner, Vision Care supports platforms that shape Sri Lanka's fashion future, reinforcing its commitment to quality, innovation, and the evolution of eyewear as a key element of personal style.
